• Thoughts from Rev. Lori

While I had not planned to speak about Roe v Wade, the article in last weeks paper authored by a former professor of mine, Marvin Ellison and by the Executive Director of Maine Council of Churches, Jane Fields, compelled me to do so. Especially in light of the fact that the ruling is currently in peril. Our service this week is less about facts and figures and more about worship elements to care for the choosers, of one sort or another. I also invite you to read the UU fifth principle and the principle of Right speech from the eight fold noble path in Buddhism. It is with these things in mind, and some shared UUA resources, I have prepared for Sunday. My talk about spiritual tools will happen on February 6. It is probably more suited to that stage of our pilgrimage together anyway. I look forward to our time together. In person or on screen!
Peace and Blessings, Rev. Lori (she/her)

• Tree of Hope

The Board of Trustees plans to decorate the Tree of Hope with your gifts through the cold Maine winter. Donations continue to be welcomed in the basket in the hall by the sanctuary door.

• Live Stream on Facebook

We are now live streaming our services on Facebook every Sunday at 10:00am

Feeling under the weather? Can't get to church?
