Hello Good People

We begin the season of advent on Sunday. It is the Sunday of hope. In these next four Sundays we will approach the return of the sun with hope, love, joy and peace candles. While the Christian context of advent is to consider this time as an approach toward the coming of the Son. To some UUs that may resonate. Others could consider this season as an approach to the return sun. Our journey toward the darkest day of the year and the return of the light marked by weekly reflections. This Sunday the candle will be lit for Hope. I invite you to reflect on where hope is for you these days. What do your hope for? What have you given up on? Where do you need support? How does our community help rekindle the spark of hope in your life?

Advent blessings to you

Peace and Blessings
